Abstract

The paper tries to synthesize the existing data regarding new medical concept of Energetic / Holistic Medicine (EM), underlying the real role of EM in screening of some medical conditions, the support of EM as Complementary Medicine in health evaluation, as preventive medicine or even qualitative diagnosis of some incipient maladies.

The paper emphasis the necessity of a large multicenter study, according to GCP rules, to demonstrate the role of EM (SCIO-biofeedback) as Complementary approach in screening or quick diagnostic of some medical conditions to human and animals, and the similitudes of some illness and simultaneous presence of specific acute or chronic maladies.
